A Wild, Burning Itch that Strikes with a Thousand Electric Needles.

Editor Altoona (Pa) Call
I wish to say something in praise of that valuable medicine CUTICURA, which I saw advertised in your paper I have had that old leprosy of which you read in the Bible where the Jews first got it among them, and did not know how to cure it. It has many other English names I have had it on my body for over sixty years.

NO DOCTOR COULD TELL
Me what it was and probably I never would have known had I not seen the advertisement in your valuable paper First it is a scaly affection of the skin next it looks like barnacles on a vessel's bottom or a rotten log that is laid in the water for a long time and just the same in my feet, knees and elbows, and by taking a microscope and looking at it it looks worse In other words, we call it

ICHTHYOSIS, OR FISH SKIN.
Then comes on what I call the wild burning itch that will strike you with a thousand electric itchy needles. You cannot tell where to scratch first. You then have to run out into the open air to get relieved Why it is dreadful and having so many eminent doctors and not one knowing what to do for you, but I have found the cure at last. It did not take two spoonsful [illegible]

CUTICURA RESOLVENT
[illegible] itching in the throat [illegible] my hair is becoming soft and silky and I then got to using external applications of CUTICURA SOAP and anoint the parts with CUTICURA If the thousands knew the goodness of this medicine they would not be twenty-four hours without it. It is not only adapted to my case but to all others, and if any one disbelieves this let him stop next door to the Log House here take my microscope and see for himself

The Doctor's Endorsement.

Dr W I Wright Cincinnati O sends the following [illegible] endorsement I have prescribed DR. WM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS in a great [illegible] of cases and always with success. One case in particular was given up by several physicians who had been called in for consultation with myself. The patient had all the symptoms of confirmed consumption—cold night sweats, hectic fever harassing coughs, etc He commenced immediately to get better and was soon restored to his usual health. I also found DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS the most valuable expectorant for breaking up distressing coughs and colds.

THE DEAD CHIEFTAIN

A Steady Stream of Visitors Files Past the Coffin.

THE ORDER OF THE PROCESSION.

A Villifier of Grant Falls Dead—The King of Siam Sends a Letter of Condolence to Mrs Grant—Note and Comment.

NEW YORK Aug 6—People loitered in the City Hall park all night that they might be first in the line that soon after 8 o'clock this morning began filing past the remains of General Grant where they lay at the city hall There were no great throngs awaiting admission. Those who waited at 6 o'clock were not more than 1000 persons Inspector Steers was in charge He had ordered 150 policemen to report to him at the city hall at an early hour this morning At 6 o clock, the hour fixed for admitting public inspectors officers were still filing into the plaza. Two lines of policemen were placed across the plaza from the city hall entrance to the fountain These two lines formed a passage way through which four men might walk abreast and along which all day visitors to the remains should pass Meanwhile officers of the Twenty second regiment, who had been on duty through the early morning, were filing out of the city hall They were going home and their places were being taken by officers of the Twelfth regiment. Sergeant Riley and 200 men were picketed in the corridors through the building so as to form a channel through which the throng should move to the exit on the court house side of the city hall Grant Post had a mounted detail at 5 o'clock to serve from that hour until 8 o clock These men were placed nearest the catafalque and two lines of visitors passed between them and the casket on either side All within the gloomy corridors was in readiness Clocks pointed to 6.06 A M and at the inspector's orders the iron gates were thrown open Ten or twelve hundred people had jammed up against the officers who barred the channel at the edge of the fountain circle, but when the gates swung open the officers ceased to hold the people in check and the stream began to flow past the remains and through the building

THE CROWD HURRIED

The first person to visit the remains to-day was a spare, but sweet faced little woman who led with each hand a little boy In the first minute only 54 persons passed the casket. This rate of passage would never answer when a dense crowd should be waiting outside and the people were hastened. They were hurried through at the rate of 101 a minute and then the pressure was increased to 104 a minute The procession was almost at a lockstep and the tramp was quick A tide was easily formed of persons who came from the cars and who in passing through Main street were drawn into the stream by a desire to see the dead The hour from 6 to 7 o clock was employed by workingmen and women boys and girls in viewing the remains All through the hour the formation of the line was at a point near the fountain and the time of waiting was not more than ten minutes from the point where the lines formed to the place where the remains rested. After 7 o'clock the line changed as to its personnel There were less women and girls and the police were reinforced At 8 o'clock details under sergeants and roundsmen had been arriving and reporting to the inspector from 7 o clock At 8 o'clock there were 45[illegible] men on duty Guards at the casket were hastening the people 150 per minute being hurried through The hands on the clock dials marked [illegible] o clock, the fountain circle was no longer the point of formation of the line and every car coming down town added its quota to those anxious to look upon the face of the general. The crowd was fast becoming strong the line was being hurried through the hall at the rate of 140 per minute and for a little while the pace was 170 per minute which if maintained for an hour would pass 10,200 persons

THE STREAM OF HUMANITY

At 11 o clock between 30 000 and 3[illegible] 000 persons had passed the casket and looked toward the remains though many, coming rapidly in from the bright sunlight were scarcely able to distinguish them in the somber shadows of the black draped corridor The floral offering of the board of aldermen was set up during the morning, beneath the rotunda dome where light streamed down upon it The central column rose ten feet, and was flanked by standard colors, while the base was a bed of ferns and palms, among which was placed huge rows of white buds

An incident was occasioned by the attempt of an old lady who came up in line, to stop and kiss the face of the dead general She was reminded hastily that such proceeding was in bad taste and besides two plates of glass prevented any demonstration of the kind

Mayor Grace this morning sent the following communication to the commissioner of public works Rollin M Squire In deference to the expressed wish of some of the friends and admirers of General Grant you are hereby directed to remove from the front of the city hall the verses inscribed thereon

Colonel Grant was asked if he would consent to the placing of a Grand Army badge upon the breast of the dead general The son acceded and to-day Senior Vice Commander John H Johnson of U S Grant post pinned the token upon the general's breast. Consent has also been given the military order of the Loyal Legion to fix upon the breast of the remains the token of that organization

After midday and during lunch hours the early afternoon many letter carriers passed into the hall and viewed the remains

THE PROCESSION SWELLED

The procession at the city hall was doubled up into four at midnight It is composed principally of the respectable working people

At 1 o clock the crowd was stopped and the corpse was left in charge of thirteen veterans of Grant post No. 327

THE FAMILY

The Grant family spent a quiet day at the Fifth Avenue hotel General Sherman called in the morning, but there were no other visitors during the day

At 1 P M the procession of people to the hall was more dense than at any time during the day and was composed mostly of working people

[illegible]

NEW YORK Aug 6—Corporation Counsel Lacombe to-day sent to Mayor Grace a communication reporting a resolution passed by the board of aldermen regarding the designation of a plot of ground in Riverside park for General Grant's sepulture. The mayor had asked the corporation counsel whether if he (the mayor) approved the resolution it would be legally operative The corporation counsel holds that the land referred to is not an absolute fee but a fee in trust for certain purposes Land thus acquired cannot be given away by the city nor if it were held in fee simple absolute could it be so conveyed by the common council The sinking fund commissioners only could convey it but a provision states that they must sell at public auction He says he is of the opinion that if the resolution were signed by the mayor it would be legally operative to the effect that the possession of the ground proposed would give the park commissioners the power to grant the right of sepulture

MONEY IN NEW YORK'S POCKET

The Commercial says If General Grant's funeral in New York will cost $1 000 000 the [illegible] New York [illegible] the indebtedness for the entire amount and [illegible] at midnight on Saturday after balancing its profits and losses find a satisfactory amount to its credit. Railroad men estimating closely believe that 200,000 people will use the railways in visiting and seeing the funeral procession Taking $5 as a low average, from this source about $1,000 000 will flow into the coffers of the corporations which provide the greater part of transportation to the metropolis Perhaps 40 000 people will use the steamships Their average excursion fare will be about $2 making a total of $80 000 Hotel and restaurant men who have been interviewed estimate that there will be about 400 000 extra mouths to feed during the remainder of the week another $2,000 000.

THE PROCESSION

AT VARIOUS PLACES

A VILIFIER OF GRANT FALLS DEAD

NEW YORK Aug 6—A Washington special says There has been but one newspaper in the south so far as has been observed here which has spoken ill of Grant since his death and has taken occasion to attempt to revive war memories using his grave for a rifle pit That paper was published in Raleigh North Carolina and its editorial has been copied in most of the republican papers of the north A gentleman who reached here from North Carolina to-day tells a curious story about the writer and his tragic end The ink upon the paper which contained the article was scarcely dry and the edition of the paper had not all been delivered at the postoffice when the editor who wrote the article fell dead This editor was convicted as a ku klux, and sentenced to ten years at the Albany penitentiary He remained in the Albany penitentiary four years, when a petition for his pardon generally signed in his locality was presented to President Grant The president granted his pardon and the man returned to his home and has been in politics since but has committed no conspicuous act until he made the recent assault upon the memory of Gen Grant so quickly followed by his own death

AN ENGLISH [illegible]

LONDON, Aug 6—The St James Gazette tory this evening joins the Saturday Review, also tory in carping at the memorial service in Westminster abbey The editorial claims that no one, Lincoln excepted on the northern side could have compared with Lee Jackson or Beauregard in nobility of character "This forbids us" continues the paper to regard the southern soldiers as criminals over whose defeat the English can rejoice The article next criticises America's grand funeral and says it would have been more humane to have buried the northern general with less ostentation

FROM THE KING OF SIAM

MT MCGREGOR, Aug 6—Mrs Grant has received the following cable dispatch from the king of Siam I learn with the deepest regret of the death of General Grant You will be assured that your grief in the severe loss you have sustained is shared by me in this extremity of the earth which the general has honored with a visit and I pray that providence will bestow his blessing upon the late and lamented general's family

IN FAVOR OF HAYES'S SUGGESTION

BALTIMORE Aug 6—At a general meeting of members of various posts of the G A R held in this city to-night a resolution was adopted commending the suggestion made by ex President Hayes that Grand Army men erect a national monument to the memory of Grant The resolution suggests that the monument be erected at Washington and that the sum of $300 000 be raised by an assessment of one dollar on each member of the organization

EXECUTIVE ORDER

WASHINGTON Aug 6—The president to-day issued the following executive order It is hereby ordered that the several executive departments and the government printing office be closed to-morrow August [illegible] at 1 o clock to enable such employes as may desire to attend the funeral of the late ex president General Grant, in New York

FITZHUGH LEE

ALEXANDRIA Va Aug 6 Fitzhugh Lee [illegible] Maj Cortland H Smith will leave Washington to-morrow afternoon to attend the obsequies of Gen Grant

WILL REFRAIN FROM BUSINESS

LONDON Aug 6—The brokers interested in American markets have agreed to refrain from doing business on Saturday as a mark of respect to the memory of General Grant

"LET US HAVE PEACE"

Chicago Evening Journal

Some of the most profuse newspaper articles and most effusive expressions of sympathy in relation to General Grant's death have come from the south The old confederates have, as a rule, been demonstrative and exuberant in dispatches speeches and publications on this subject If professions were to be regarded as proof and if the efflorescence of a section over this mournful event were to be accepted as evidence of patriotic feeling, the south might be regarded as the most loyal section of the country Some outspoken ex-rebels especially one who is a member of the Georgia legislature have not attempted to assume the role of sorrow which they do not feel But as a rule the outward show of mourning is little more ostentatious at the south than at the north

It will be recalled that the most [illegible] funeral oration in congress on the occasion of the death of Charles Sumner was delivered by Senator Lamar of Mississippi [illegible] of the late [illegible] in President Cleveland's cabinet But there was not enough patriotism and loyalty in his eloquence to educate the people of Mississippi, and the political massacre at Hazlehurst in Copiah county in that state showed how little the sentimentality of Senator Lamar tended to temper chasten and humanize the political brigands who formed the bulk of his constituency

Gush and sentiment at the south in regard to General Grant's death are not to be taken as evidences of loyalty patriotism or devotion to law or order If the ballot box shall be protected from fraud and violence, if the rights of colored voters to approach the polls and vote as their inclinations and consciences may dictate unintimidated by ku klux menaces without obstruction from [illegible]ism and certain that their votes will be counted as cast it will be the only assurance—but it will be conclusive that the words and sentiment of the great soldier have borne fruit among them and that their expressions of sorrow at his death are something besides surface grief and the hypocritical semblance of mourning The freedom and security of the elective franchise at the south would constitute the best monument that the southern people can rear to the memory of General Grant of whose campaigns in war and administration in peace it was the guiding principle and most essential object

A Change Wrought by the War

Charleston News and Courier

How does it happen that in this city and never before the choicest daughters of the south the daughters of wealth and refinement high born and high bred are found in the schoolroom ministering like angels to the children of rich and poor alike [illegible] Out of the destruction and desolation of war has sprung this great blessing It is the silver lining of that dark cloud turned now refulgent upon our land What ages of normal progress might not have accomplished, has been wrought by a mighty revolution within one generation The war is already blessing the south Who does not see it in the school room as elsewhere Of the cross that we bore our children are already wearing the crown and our children's children shall wear it after them Its light is already shining in nearly every southern home Is there not food for gratitude as well as for reflection, in a visit to our normal institute

MAJOR JONES'S REPORT

He Submits a Scheme for Improving the Upper Columbia

WASHINGTON Aug 6—Major W A Jones has made his annual report on improvement of Oregon and Washington territory rivers during the past fiscal year $[illegible] has been expended on the Columbia at the Cascades and $[illegible] remains available Much benefit has already resulted from his improvement. It is estimated that $1 750 000 is required to complete the project and $750 000 is asked for next year Major Jones says that if the total amount needed is appropriated he can open this work to navigation inside of two years. Its opening he says will have a great and beneficial influence on the development of this exceedingly rich and fertile country The principal improvements are the flanking of the upper cascades with a canal 300 feet long and the removal of obstructions to navigation of the lower cascades

THE UPPER COLUMBIA.

In speaking of the proposed improvement of the Columbia river near The Dalles Oregon Major Jones says that for a distance of about thirteen miles commencing a little above that city the river runs and is choked apparently by an intrusion of lava through which it has with difficulty cut a passage The obvious mode of improving navigation here is to dodge these mighty obstacles by means of canals and locks. Such a project, it is estimated, would cost $11,000 000, because of extensive excavations and walls and gates of unprecedented height that would be required If we apply this enormous sum at the rate at which funds have been provided for the Cascades canal it will appear that over one hundred years will be required before navigation could be opened through this obstruction

RAILWAY INCLINES

Major Jones thinks that canals and locks will ultimately be used for making the improvement. He, however, proposes another project for the present and says I propose to flank the dalles and Celilo falls with railway inclines over which laden boats and river crafts may be hauled by means of ordinary engines at the summits, and blast out the contracted water ways to a width of 200 feet which will be sufficient to reduce the velocity to a navigable status

Major Jones says such proposition has been advocated at this place for years. He estimates the maximum grade of the track for the railway at 21.84 feet per mile The cars will have extra wheels each with independent axles on a [illegible] track [illegible] feet and [illegible] inches wide. The maximum load on a single wheel will be about seventeen tons For the present only a single line of track is proposed He estimates the cost for such improvement at about $1,250 000

Major Jones concludes I have put this project forward for agitation and discussion refraining from recommendation until it has been discussed and criticised in the usual way

THE COAST SURVEY

The Investigating Committee Report a Bad State of Affairs

WASHINGTON Aug 6—The report of the committee consisting of Messrs Thorn Garrison and Huntington, upon their investigation of the coast survey has been submitted to the secretary of the treasury It states that they took possession of the bureau on July 4 in a condition of [illegible] leaving no ground for doubt that the actual condition of the survey was one of demoralization and its working inefficient unjust and to some extent disreputable The regulations are partially to blame but the late superintendent is chargeable with the willingness to avail himself of opportunities for continuance of this [illegible] and procrastination, favoritism and arrogance, disregard of the regulations and notorious use of intoxicants. This contention seems to have been demonstrated [illegible] long lists of charges and articles which are set forth at great length and which involve reckless extravagance and gross mismanagement

[illegible] perhaps [illegible] restoration to his former place is deprecated The restoration of C A Saigmuller would it is claimed be detrimental to the morals of the coast survey Evidence is given indicating Mr W B Morgan's neglect of all attention to unusual or apparently unnecessary charges while disbursing agent of the bureau and the report alleges that he has become addicted to the use of intoxicants His restoration to duty is not recommended An early change is recommended in the interest of morals and discipline in the position of clerk in charge of the drawing division now held by Mr W T Bright The report vindicates Mr A Sumbrocks of the electrotyping room

Of the fifty-eight employes of the bureau twelve are classified as very able and efficient, thirty two as efficient and reliable six as able but not very efficient two either inefficient or not well informed and two whose usefulness is impaired by age or infirmity

Roach's Contracts

New York Tribune,

We have taken pains to ascertain the facts about John Roach's dealings with the government. From 1865 to 1884, exclusive of the cruisers still unfinished he received less than $3,000 000 from the government During the same period the entire amount of work done by him on contracts was $40 000 000 His government contracts formed not more than [illegible] per cent of the whole volume of his business as a shipbuilder We have not estimated his work for the government during the war period as that was an extraordinary period when all shipbuilders were impressed into the service.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1885.

SUCCESS THROUGH ORIGINALITY.

When the war broke out General Grant was getting $40 a month in his father's leather shop at Galena. "His poverty and taciturnity," writes Mr. Warren Olney in the Overland Monthly for August, "made him one of the most obscure men of the town." When he volunteered for the war he had no idea whatever of reaching a high command—thought possibly he might command a regiment, but didn't dream that there was the career of a great leader before him. He imitated nobody, had no historical models, and won success in the only way any man can win it—by his own originality. He saw that campaigns were not to be made successful by studying the tactics of other great campaigns, but by going right in and adapting the work to the circumstances. He saw, too, that armies were not to made up out of American volunteers on the mere tactician's models, but on adaptation of the plan of organization to the nature of the men and the quality of the work they would have to perform. Grant therefore had the western armies in splendid fighting order, and was leading them to one victory after another, while McClellan was doing the duty of the martinet, under instruction of the manual of arms, upon the Potomac.

Mr. Olney, in his sketch in the Overland, says: "The war broke out, and for the first time, so far as known, this man was really roused. He soon found himself drilling a company of volunteers, and went with them to the state capital as their captain. Regiments were being organized faster than men fit to command them could be found, and Grant, a graduate of West Point, was almost immediately made a colonel. Men fit for brigadiers were few, and this colonel, who evidently understood his business and was quietly and sedulously attending to it, was soon promoted and given an important command. He who disliked, and who had always disliked military life and all connected with it, finds himself at the head of an army, and determined to make every possible use of it to grind the rebellion to powder. The impassive taciturn man is thoroughly aroused. He recognizes the fact at once that to prevent the disruption of the Union all the energy and force of the entire north must be put forth, and the south conquered by crushing, overwhelming blows; that the southern people must be defeated in battle until utterly exhausted, and that it was only by constant and fearful fighting that the south could be exhausted and the war closed."

All this stands out now in striking contrast to the idea, so prevalent at the time, that the rebellion was to be crushed by superior strategy and military display. Whatever was attempted in the east was to be "Napoleonic." For two years the eyes of the Magi followed a supposed star upon the Potomac, which was to be the sign of a Napoleon, but it finally went out in mist—a mere ignis fatuus. All this time Grant was doing sturdy work in the west, without claiming for it Napoleonic renown. He had the judgment to know that the work of a great commander upon one stage is not to be repeated by another commander of another time and upon another stage; and so because, as ex-Secretary Fish declares, he had no historical models, he succeeded, just as great writers since Shakespeare have succeeded by avoiding attempts to imitate Shakespeare.

H. W. S.

A great man is always an original man. He does things in his own ways. The imitator, if judicious and apt, may do notable things, but never highest things. In literature the greatest of all men who have followed models is Virgil; in war the greatest of all men who have followed models is Wellington. The one was a follower of Homer, the other of Fabius; but as a Virgil is not a Homer or Shakespeare, neither is a Wellington a Hannibal, a Marlborough or a Grant. The man who attempts to follow a great model so closely as to make it his guide thereby dwarfs his own genius, becomes afraid to act, and does nothing. Dante, in his admiration of Virgil, began his own great poem in the stately Latin hexameter, but soon had the good sense to abandon it for the terza rima of his native tongue. Had he persisted as a copyist of Virgil, his name instead of being immensely above Virgil's, as now, with only two or three more in all literature to keep it company in its soaring height, would not have outlasted his own mortal life.

OBITUARY POETRY.

This is not an age of poetic expression. The fact has been made very apparent by the poor quality of the multitudinous verses uttered on the death of General Grant. Great effort has been made by a multitude of writers to produce something which should be worthy, but the result has been only poverty of expression. Thousands of odes, lean and flashy, are running through the newspapers, and editors have rejected tens of thousand more, perhaps neither much worse nor much better; but a single poem, strikingly good, has not yet appeared.

Beyond the fact that the present is not an age of poetic expression, there is a reason for this. Great threnodic poetry has always been one of the most difficult forms of composition, as ordinary obituary verse has been one of the easiest. On the death of a great man there is scarcely a great ode in all literature, but there are great odes on the death of persons less eminent, whom writers possessing the true poetic fervor, moved to action by real sorrow, have lamented in immortal verse.

Gray's great poem is only a general elegy, written for no particular person. A still greater poem is Milton's Lycidas, written to honor the memory of a classmate of the author, who was lost by shipwreck in the Irish sea. In English poetry this piece stands unrivaled. Its pathos, touched with the highest form of poetic expression, grows upon him to whom it becomes familiar, through his whole lifetime. The poem has the pastoral form, and one feels that some of its allusions are strained and obscure; but except in that form it could not have appeared; for although a great poet is original he casts his work in forms with which his mind has become familiar, and Milton was full on this occasion of the old elegiac writers. His indebtedness to Moschus and Bion, poets of the Alexandrian period of Greek literature, has given us the noblest elegiac ode that the English language can boast.

In Shelley there arose another genius with strange power over the same spirit of poetry that moved Milton to the production of "Lycidas." In "Adonais," Shelley's poem on the death of Keats, there is complete absorption of the spirit of Moschus and Bion, and, what is more, a most astonishing intensification of it. There is a striking energy of grief, wrought to the highest pitch; the poetic imagery is original, appropriate, and often startlingly pregnant with tremendous meaning; and yet the whole is kept within natural bounds. This makes the poem wondrously impressive. Moreover, the composition is lit up here and there with the most piercing gleams of spiritual truth, which touch the tenderness of nature, illumine death, and, in a strange conflict of emotions, both augment grief and assuage it. But except "Lycidas" and "Adonais" there is hardly any great threnodic poetry in our language. There is much that is cold and formal, much that is fairly good, and more that is not worth characterizing at all.

A great man dies and all have a sense of the fact that a great spirit has passed from earth; but the feeling for him is not that of personal affection, and therefore the deeper emotions are untouched. Every one falls to writing verses, but no one is moved by personal affection. The consequence, at best, is a machine ode like that of Tennyson on the Duke of Wellington, or more spirited performances like those of Byron on Napoleon. Something far deeper is seen in those sonnets of Longfellow's on "Three Friends of Mine." Only the voice of personal affection, speaking through poetic genius, produces work like that. Men like Grant and Washington and Wellington seldom number among their intimate friends those who have power to link their names with immortal verse. Nor is this surprising. Those who have that power are themselves as rare as great commanders, nay, rarer still; and the tastes and pursuits of the two sorts of men, even where they are contemporaries, do not bring them together during the period of their active or every-day life.

INDIAN WHEAT AGAIN.

Since the publication of an article yesterday on the rivalry between the United States and India in the European market, we learn that the carriage rate from Indian ports to Liverpool is ten shillings less than the rate from San Francisco to Liverpool. Portland being a ten-shillings higher port than San Francisco, the difference between Oregon and India is twenty shillings. This difference varies with different years, but it is always in the neighborhood of the above figures. Under these freight rates the natural value of wheat in Oregon is twenty shillings less than the value of wheat in India. We are now able to get a higher price because India cannot furnish all that is required, but as Indian production increases the price of wheat in Oregon will decrease. In the end, the difference in the freight rate between Calcutta and Liverpool and Portland and Liverpool will be the exact measure between the values of Oregon and Indian wheat. The price of wheat in India is now less than 80 cents per bushel, and when the competition becomes close we must retire. How far in the future this will be depends upon the policy of the British government which holds the matter of railway extension in India, and consequently that of wheat production in its own hands. But it will come sometime in the future, and we imagine that it is not many years ahead. The British government will not long neglect an opportunity to secure by one simple course five desirable effects, namely, cheap bread for England, freedom from dependence upon America for breadstuffs, development of industry in India, employment for British shipping and revenue from the Suez canal. Oregon being the furthest removed of all the countries which supply England with wheat, will be first driven out of the market; and California will be next to fail in the contest. It is simply a matter of time. We should look at the future intelligently and prepare for it by learning to do something besides raise wheat.

The development of wheat production in India has cost England a great deal of money. It would, possibly, not have been thought of but for the avarice of American speculators who, by "cornering" the breadstuffs product of the country, were able to exact artificial and ruinously high prices. In seeking means of relief the Indian project was hit upon. Its success is likely to teach the United States a practical lesson, namely, that the commercial game of grab can be overdone.

HENDRICKS GETS HIS MAN WHITEWASHED.

The mugwump allies of the administration have got the worst of the controversy which they raised over the management of the Indianapolis postoffice, and are smartly snubbed by the result. The civil service commission gives Hendricks's postmaster a coat of whitewash, and there the matter ends. Now, what are the mugwumps going to do about it? The report of the commission, fixed up tenderly to clear the postmaster, doesn't meet the charges made by the mugwumps at all. Those charges as formulated by the New York Times and Evening Post were mainly these, to-wit: That the postmaster had been guilty of conduct calculated to bring scandal, not only on his office and his party, and the administration, but on the service in which he is engaged. The appointment of two sons of his own and a nephew of the vice president; the removal of poor women and widows of soldiers, dependent on their wages for a pitiful support of their families, and the displacement of deserving and competent officers by mere hack politicians, were all cited in proof. In the report of the commission these specifications are not met. A further direct charge that the postmaster had declared that "he would in no case appoint a republican, no matter how high an examination he had passed," is averted by a subterfuge. On this point the commission kindly frames for the postmaster the excuse that he meant the remark to apply only to appointments outside the civil service rules. But for appointments outside the civil service rules there are no examinations.

The report is a continuous apology for the postmaster, and it remains to be seen how the mugwumps, who instigated the so-called investigation, will receive it. They will be compelled to admit either that they lied about the postmaster, or that the investigation was a farce. In either event the attention of the country will be called to the hollowness and dishonesty of a proceeding that shows how little there is in the professions of the administration in behalf of what is called civil service reform. It was a signal victory for Hendricks over the mugwumps to capture the commission and get his man whitewashed.

The Astorian is in a most fretful mood. It calls THE OREGONIAN all sorts of hard names, and appears to be incensed because we are treating it with too much civility in turn. Then, to please it, let us drop civility and say that the Astorian has worked itself into the attitude of an irate and perverse fool, with whom it is never profitable to multiply words. It has got to the affidavit stage to support its assertion that wheat has been boated from Portland to Astoria by the Astoria Transportation company at a cost of 87½ cents per ton. Then why, in the name of "the Columbia river of commerce," don't the Astoria Transportation company go on doing it and keep on doing it and make its great profit by doing it and stop the Astorian's idiotic yawp by doing it? The river is a free highway. There is no hindrance. It would be useless to say more to the Astorian on the subject, at least till it has gotten over the blind rage that causes it to make so pitiful a fool of itself. And besides, all the conditions of the case have been so fully and plainly stated in these columns that the wayfaring man, though the editor of the Astorian, should not err therein. Let us add now in all kindness that if the editor will put a cabbage leaf in his hat, and soak his feet every time the tide is in, and ply a fan vigorously, he may recover his temper in a few days, and be prepared then to lapse into his usual status of indolent and unruffled stupidity.

Persons who claim to know declare that the charges made against Mr. Matthews, superintendent of the street cleaning department, are inspired by malice, and that they can easily be proved to have no basis. It is further declared that Councilman Holland, who makes the charges, is acting for Councilman Gerdes, who does not wish to appear as a formal prosecutor in the case. However this may be, we do not know, but we do know that it costs too much money to run the government of this city. Where the leaks are of course we cannot say, nor if they are those of robbery or of extravagance. But, clearly, it costs too much to run the government. It would not be a bad scheme to review all the items of expense, and to see just where the money goes. It is not sufficient to say "for fire department" so many thousands of dollars, "for street cleaning" so many more thousands, and so on, but the items should be distinctly stated. We imagine that such a statement would surprise the public.

Reports coming in from day to day confirm the high expectations of an extraordinary surplus of wheat and flour. The estimate of 300,000 tons is not now considered too high. It is true that the prices we must accept are low. They will certainly be less by twenty cents to the bushel than the prices of certain past years, and considerably less than the "dollar a bushel" which has come to be the Oregon standard; but it must be remembered that money goes farther than it did half-a-dozen years ago, and if at eighty or eighty-five cents is as good for the practical purposes of buying food, clothing and other needfuls as a dollar was in 1875. It should also be borne in mind that the cost of producing wheat is now somewhat less than it was. Labor is not so high, the cost of food for laborers is not so great, feed for stock costs less, farming machinery is slightly cheaper and does the work cleaner and more economically. All these things together make a considerable decrease in the cost of production.

THE BLANKEST OUTRAGE YET.

It is a habit with the people of Oregon not to get anything done in the state that can possibly be done elsewhere. Even the state agricultural society has been getting its printing done at Cincinnati. This is nothing less than an outrage. At Salem or Portland there are job printing offices that could do the work in sufficiently good style and at favorable rates. Perhaps it would be well for the printers and publishers of Oregon to let the managers of the state fair look to Cincinnati for their customers.

Nothing will ever be done in this country so long as public institutions like our state agricultural society send their work away from the state to be done. The directors of the Portland public schools did the same thing when they refused to buy desks of Oregon manufacture, and sent east for a dearer and no better article. The spirit that does these things hangs over Oregon like the original curse over Paradise, to blast and wither all enterprise within it. Is public spirit utterly dead? Has nobody any conception of the situation? A blight rests upon the country which can only be removed by giving people here a chance to work. The chief of all offenders in this regard are the managers of public institutions who send out of the state orders for work entrusted to them.

When the Cincinnati bills get here we shall know when the state fair is to be held. And perhaps in a few weeks the managers of the state agricultural society will give some notice of their fair to the people of Oregon through the Cincinnati newspapers.

Chris Buckley, democratic boss of San Francisco, is extending his operations. This being an off season in the office brokerage line, he has taken a flyer into another field. The Post exposes a neatly executed game by which, through ownership of the grand jury, he has been able to traffic profitably in indictments and acquittals. One of the remarkable effects of the exposure has been to arouse the San Francisco press to a sense of the degradation into which the city has fallen. The San Franciscan says: "Our grand jury to-day in this city is a creature of Boss Buckley, his methods and his henchmen. Our local system of government, as administered, is in many respects a disgrace and an outrage against every idea of law and order, not to name justice and common rectitude. How long will the people stand it? A patient and long-waiting people are we, but in proportion to our mildness is our wrath, and when this shall be aroused Boss Buckley and his heelers may, like Tweed and his in their day, awake to find the waters of the deluge sweeping over them, with no ark in view to save them from their deserved destruction." Other papers have spoken in the same tone, and a new anti-Buckley sentiment is in the air.

It was not investigation at Indianapolis; it was whitewash. The tone of the report is softly exculpatory and apologetic throughout. It wouldn't do for the administration to offend Hendricks and the Hoosier democracy. This is what was to have been expected from putting the investigation in charge of Thoman. That light of the Ohio democracy is a reformer by virtue of his office; but by the virtue of everything else in his career he is a machine politician. An Ohio paper said a week ago: "They who expect that he will be hard on a spoilsman of his own party for nullifying the civil service law, are not acquainted with Thoman."

The interest in psychical research has grown remarkably in America during the past year, and a society has recently been organized in Chicago with the intention of prosecuting inquiry into the fascinating realm of occult science. The field is an interesting one, and many have found results therein amply repaying investigation.

How an occasion like this tends to the utterance of nonsense! Here is the New York Herald saying: "If in the same resting place Lee and Grant should be laid side by side, in token of that brotherliness which no rebellion could shake, the world would wonder and admire, and America would feel that the 'dead past has buried its dead.'"

They didn't succeed in butchering Hendricks's man at Indianapolis to make a mugwump holiday. The civil service commission interposed its protecting shield and caught the mugwump weapons; and now democracy dances with delight while mugwumpery sulks in spite and disappointment.

The New York Times' report of the Virginia democratic convention says: "The platform 'points with pride' to all the principles of the republicans which have been adopted, and 'shuns' only those charges that the republicans make against the democrats."

Arguing against the civil service law, the St. Louis Republican, democratic organ, says: "It is the duty of every good citizen on election day to say by his ballot by whom he will be served in the offices." Suppose you try that down south?

THE OREGONIAN is glad to be relieved of the work of reporting the State fair this year. It supposes that the managers have made arrangements with the Cincinnati newspapers for reports.

John S. Wise says: "There are not 200 democrats among the 128,000 negro voters in Virginia;" though he thinks the democrats will buy and bulldose some thousands of them.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S APPEAL.

ST. HELENS, Or., Aug. 6, 1885.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I write this note for the information of the public and as a matter of news. Yesterday S. A. Miles (everyone knows S. A. Miles), who had a chattel mortgage on the Columbian office and three horses for the paltry sum of $250 or thereabouts, sold the same to E. H. Flagg, editor of the Mist, and under his orders the sheriff took possession of the office. This was done without notice and was entirely unexpected by me. I cannot account for Miles' action in the matter, unless it was to bid it in for a small sum, or get the horses for little or nothing on their sale; or he might be angry at the poem I wrote on "Grant" in July 24. I know he was very angry at a poem I wrote during the campaign entitled "Logan." At this time, when the revered corpse of General Grant lies in state, I would request of the loyal people of Oregon and Washington territory that they would not suffer another old soldier to be pushed to the wall by perfidy for the paltry sum of $250, and that they, citizens and old soldiers, would subscribe for my paper, and give an old soldier a benefit who carries a rebel bullet in his body, and who is in the gallant old Second New Hampshire regiment, Hooker's brigade, third army corps, fought in the peach orchard at Gettysburg, where three out of every four gave up their lives. I cannot believe the loyal people of Washington territory and Oregon will leave me in the hands of these Parthians.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

DESTROYING DUCK PONDS.—During the summer a number of women living along Tanner creek, in the western part of the city, built dams across the creek, using the back water for duck ponds, some of them pretty good sized bodies of water As might have been expected, the warm weather during the past month has brought on unbearable stenches, Complaint was made to the superintendent of streets, and yesterday Deputy William Braden, with seven city prisoners went out and removed the dams They were in the neighborhood of K and North Eighth While on the subject, it is pertinent to remark that as the population in the west end increases, Tanner creek will give more and more trouble every summer, During the rainy season it is all right as it is, but the problem of what to do for all the year round is not easy of solution The plan of constructing a great sewer, it is believed, will not work, for the reason that there will not be enough water flowing through it in summer to keep it clean and there is great danger of the accumulation of foul gases It is understood that the committee on streets will report against the proposed sewer

THE CATHEDRAL CONCERT.—The Cathedral of our Lady Immaculate was opened last night, when a grand vocal and instrumental concert under the direction of W H. Kinross was the attraction From the outward appearance of the church one can form no conception of the beauties of the interior. As seen last night, beautifully lighted up and crowded by a representative audience, the effect was strikingly beautiful. The concert was an eminently successful one Each and every one of the vocalists deservedly received an encore Where all did so well it is perhaps unwise to particularize, but the duett from "Martha" and Miss Edgar's "Kathleen Mavourneen" were the most warmly received Mrs. Goodsell, Miss Hanley, Miss Manciet and Harry Gates all did better than usual, while Mr. Kinross, between singing and conducting, had his hands full. It must have been cheering to Father Fierens to see so large an audience, and is only another evidence of the old saying "Good music pays." Mr Kinross was ably assisted in conducting by Mr Masten, the talented choir master of the cathedral

STORY FOR THE MARINES.—A singular coin has been brought to this office and a still more singular story was told concerning the way in which it came into the possession of its present owner. The coin has upon its face a good representation of a castle or tower of the old feudal times, underneath which is the date 18 3, and at the sides the figures and letter 1-4 C On the other side of the coin is simply a lion rampant—nothing more. The coin is silver and somewhat smaller than the silver three-cent piece of the United States No one who has yet seen it has been able to tell to what country it belongs. Perhaps some numismatist can give the desired information. The remainder of this item will do for the marines but sailors are hardly expected to believe it. About a week ago a small boy named Reynolds was fishing in the Scappoose and caught several small trout. After returning home and while cleaning the fish he discovered the above-described coin in the entrails of one of them.

INSUFFICIENT INDICTMENT — Leonard, the man who was convicted of murder in the first degree over a year ago, and has just been granted a new trial by Justice Greene, of the supreme court at Olympia, W. T., is pretty certain now to save his neck The crime was committed at Kalama over three years ago and Leonard escaped capture nearly two years, when he was discovered in the vicinity of Coos bay and brought to the trial which resulted in his conviction and sentence to hang July 25, 1884. The sentence was not executed owing to the efforts of prisoner's counsel, Beebe & Yocum, of this city, who at last succeeded in obtaining the order they sought for, a new trial In the mean time Leonard has been confined in jail at Vancouver The decision of the supreme court was based upon the fact that the indictment under which Leonard was convicted was insufficient, and that it only charged the crime of manslaughter The new trial will, therefore, probably result in his conviction for the lesser crime

BREAK THEIR REST.—The police force are unable to comprehend what Councilman Gerdes means by wanting the sessions of police court held at 9 A M instead of 3 P M unless it be to deprive them of sleep About three-fourths of the men are on night duty, which ends between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning, and it is necessary for them to be on hand as witnesses when court opens The argument that this change is proposed on the ground of economy, viz the saving of the noon meal, they say is the worst sort of bosh Most of the men who are able to pay fines put up the amount before trial and allow the bail to be forfeited. In state cases costs the city no more to feed prisoners at the city jail than at county headquarters, because the corporate limits of Portland embrace nine-tenths of the taxable property of the county To the night patrolmen the change means loss of sleep six days in the week

IN MOURNING —All the county and city offices will be closed to-morrow out of respect to the memory of General Grant, and as undoubtedly every business house will close—at least until evening—the town will, in that respect alone, give evidence of the loyalty of its mourning citizens. Then, too, there will be many mourning decorations, and window dressers of various establishments are already vying with each other in preparing tasteful designs in black and white. The finest yet shown are the windows of E. R. Behlow & Co furriers. John Cran & Co, also have a handsome design in one of their windows, made entirely of white cotton thread wound upon black spools Lipman & Co have each one of their large windows hidden behind a flag, a broad black bar diagonally across the face of the flag, and the columns covered entirely with black.

NEW BASEBALL PARK.—Next Sunday the new baseball park at the Oaks, East Portland, will be opened with the second game between the Portlands and the Stars. The nines will be about the same as those which played so close a game at Vancouver last Sunday While the infield is not quite so smooth as the one at City View park, the outfield is better After the first rain the grounds can be put in almost perfect condition A grand stand has been erected in the shade of the immense oaks and will prove a comfortable place to witness a game For the benefit of those who have not visited the many cricket games played on these grounds, it may be stated they are on the flat, directly east of the Oregon & California track, and about 300 yards above the east landing of the Stark street ferry

LEG BROKEN IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT —Yesterday morning, about 8 o'clock, Mrs James D Hart was thrown from a cart, by reason of a runaway, and suffered the fracture of both bones of the right leg below the knee. She was driving down Front street with her sister, Miss Rena Goodnough, intending to go to the Ash street wharf, when the horse stumbled and then started to run At A street both occupants were thrown out, Miss Goodnough receiving only a few slight bruises, and Mrs. Hart being injured as above stated The injured lady was kindly cared for and conveyed to the residence of her father on Fifth street. Her horse turned up A street and ran into one of Wells, Fargo & Co's teams, plunging both shafts into the animal which will probably die It was valued at $ 30

FALL OF A DERRICK —Last night between tea time and dusk, a number of workmen were engaged in raising a derrick 100 feet high in front of the Catholic cathedral, for the purpose of hoisting the new bells into position in the tower The operations were watched by a crowd of idlers, numbering 400 or 500 No guy ropes had been placed on the side next to the church, and there being too much pressure on the other side, the derrick toppled over and came to the ground with a crash There was an awfully sudden and very general scattering of the crowd and fortunately none were caught, though at least fifty people had barely time to run from under The derrick just missed the Chinese house on the southeast corner of Third and Stark and smashed through the adjoining shed

PICKED UP ON THE BEACH —A champagne bottle was picked up on the beach about two miles south of the mouth of the Coquille river last week, containing a card on which written the following "On board steamship Oregon bound north, off Cape Blanco July 10, 1885 Four bridal couples on board and everything merry as a wedding bell. Finder of this card will please send it to A H Harris, Yaquina bay, and state where found" There is one thing singular about this item and that is the bottle did not contain a mere fragment of a sheet of paper upon which in extraordinarily bad writing were the words, "We are sinking God have mercy Capt Thompson Fortunately that style of joke is no longer considered en regle

AGAIN FROZEN OUT —Isaac Vogel, the confidence man, opened in Vancouver one day last week, and just as he fairly commenced pulling in the suckers was forced to quit by the mayor revoking his license, which he had obtained by giving a name not his own While he held forth there appeared plenty of persons willing to be victimized —Vancouver Independent. Isaac had better drop on himself and leave this country The first thing he knows he'll get over to Seattle and some of the good honest citizens of that place who despise swindlers will make it so warm for him that he will be glad to seek Sheol as a summer resort.

ORDERLY FISHERMEN.—So far this season the city has reaped no harvest from discharged fishermen who have come up from Astoria. Only three arrests have been made this month among the crowd already here. They have not much money and what little they have is not going into the till of dive keepers to any alarming extent. Usually the first week in August sees from fifty to one hundred fishermen in the city jail, nearly every one with money enough to pay a fine The change is gratifying.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE —About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Lay Toi, a Chinese woman living on Second street, near Pine, attempted to take her life by swallowing "ensheo," the ashes of opium. When discovered life seemed to be extinct. Dr. A C Panton was summoned, and by the use of antidotes hypodermically administered saved her life. She offered no excuse for the act, merely saying that she wanted to die and was sorry that her wishes were frustrated

TO VISIT THE NEW WATER WORKS.—The following invitation was sent yesterday to a number of prominent citizens "The Portland water company will be pleased to have you with other citizens, join with the members of the common council in a visit to their new pumping works at Palatine hill, on Friday the 7th inst. The steamer Lurline, engaged for the occasion, will leave wharf at foot of Alder street at 3 o'clock P M., sharp"

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS AT THE SEASIDE —If you leave here at 8.30 A. M. on Saturday by the R. R. Thompson, you will reach either Ilwaco or Clatsop early in the afternoon, and you can return on Sunday afternoon, leaving Ilwaco at 4 P. M. and Clatsop about 2.30 P M., connecting with the Thompson, leaving Astoria at 6 P M. and reaching Portland during Sunday night, A great number will make this trip next Saturday

CAN BE ACCOMMODATED George Edwards, the man from Texas, who is hungry to fight somebody in Oregon, will be accommodated if he is in earnest. Billy Morgan, ex-light weight champion, though he has retired for over a year, will spar him 100 points with soft or hard gloves (hard preferred) for $50 or $100 a side, in public, the gate receipts to go to the East Portland fire department or some charitable enterprise

LARCENY —Andrew Anderson, a deckhand employed on the steamer Fleetwood, was arrested yesterday upon complaint of E. A. Seely charged with larceny. Young Anderson broke into the office on the dock at the foot of Morrison street Tuesday morning and stole $63 from the cash drawer. Since being arrested he has restored the money to its owners He will have an examination in the police court to-day

INCREASED TRAVEL.—The Northern Pacific's through west-bound train yesterday was one of the largest leaving St. Paul this year There were fourteen cars attached The coaches were well filled with first-class travelers, and the Pullman with Yellowstone park excursionists. There were from twenty-five to thirty of the latter —Pioneer Press, 3d

DWELLING BURNED —About 7 o'clock last night, the dwelling of William Kemper, a teamster on the northwest corner of Seventeenth and M caught fire and burned to the ground. Most of the furniture was saved. It was a little box of a house, loss $100, no insurance. An alarm from box 45 called out the department.

THE STEAMERS.—The Columbia arrived in at 11 15 yesterday morning, left up at 1, and reached her dock here at 8:30 P. M. The Oregon arrived at Astoria at 8 15 A. M., and crossed out at 10 45.

Mr G F Meacham has recently purchased the interest of Mr C J Witt in the firm of Mills & Witt in Walla Walla, dealers in hardware and agricultural implements. The firm name is now Mills & Meacham Mr Meacham was until recently the proprietor of a large retail grocery store in this city, and is a young man possessing both ability and energy

A salmon bit the fringe of a lady's shawl while out boat riding in front of Portland on Sunday last —Yamhill Reporter We can go you one better than that, Brother Ireland A few days since a Miss Chester of Rome New York was out boat riding with some friends on the Columbia near Vancouver, when a large salmon jumped at and kissed the lady on the cheek Two gentlemen in the boat got real jealous of the salmon and hurried to the shore for fear the fish would come alongside and try the experiment over again —Albany Bulletin

THE STAGE.

THE NEW MARKET —The Madison Square Theater company had another good house last night, despite the counter attraction of the cathedral concert, and the "Private Secretary" was repeated amidst screams of laughter It will be seen to-night and to morrow night for the last time The matinee yesterday was fully attended by the best people of Portland On account of the General Grant obsequies no performance will be given to-morrow afternoon. On Monday the company produce Wm Young's successful comedy "The Rajah," which had a run of eight months at the Madison Square theater, and has since been played all over the United States with great success. But three night and one Wednesday matinee performance will be given next week The sale of seats is progressing at Prentice's, and if we are to judge of the very excellent business done by this company during the week the outlook for "The Rajah" is promising Mr Randall tells us that "The Rajah" was the fourth play of the Madison Square series, and has achieved an artistic and financial success equal to "Hazel Kirke" and "Esmeralda." The play treats of English country life, wherein a returned Indian officer figures conspicuously with a willful ward, besides something of the strike in the collieries of England. The play is interspersed with humor and pathos, and the company that are to give it here will do it full justice, Mr Gillette appearing in the title role, Mr Kennedy as Joseph Jekyn, Mr. Thorne as Richard, and Miss A as Mrs. Pringle.

THE CASINO —This evening the original Nashville students and jubilee singers will open at the Casino for three nights. This is the same party that appeared at the Mechanics' pavilion in this city about a year ago and many people will recall their entertainment with a great deal of pleasure They give a clean, varied and wholesome performance, and their quaint, home-like, pleasing melodies have a rare charm for many who care nothing for operatic singing

REOPENING OF THE CASINO

Wallack's Celebrated Company Engaged to Open a Theatrical Season on the 17th

Arrangements have been definitely made by which Mr Gross brings to the Casino the famous combination of theatrical artists known as the Wallack company. This engagement has been made after a series of negotiations with the New York management of this company, resulting in a heavy guarantee to it covering financial risks. The company has such world wide fame, however, that the mere announcement of its appearance on the boards here will be sufficient to insure Mr Gross a fine week's business He knows he is playing a strong card, for the circus opens here the same date, and there will be an influx of country cousins, who will eagerly avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing the most refined acting on the American stage.

The plays will be "Victor Durand," "Diplomacy," the "Silver King," etc. The artists comprising the company have been carefully culled from the theatrical talent of this and the old country The following is a list of the actors and actresses who will appear in the several plays Charles E. Wells, John T. Sullivan, Charles Wheatleigh, Rowland Buckstone, Henry Talbot, T W. Denny, Harry Rockwood, C T Cartoll, Sam De Bois, William Warren, Miss Louise Dillon, Miss Sadie Bigelow, Miss Gracie Wilson, Miss Kate Lenin Wilson, Miss Emma Germon and Mrs. W. Munn There is no doubt that this company will prove the finest organization that has ever visited our city The opening will surely be an event that will be long remembered, both in a theatrical sense, as also showing what energy and perseverance can accomplish

The Casino will be now almost permanently open either with opera, drama or comedy Mr Gross has ventured a good deal, worked hard to please, and deserves encouragement. Opening with such a company will be an immense start, and should usher in a successful and enjoyable season There will be no smoking in the house under the new regime. Full particulars as to booking and other arrangements will be duly announced

THE EAST SIDE

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT.

The improvements to be made to W S. Ladd's property, south of the ferry landing, will be as follows The northern portion of the present wharf, which is 100 feet wide, will be extended to water street, increasing its depth to 250 feet, and above this another floor will be erected giving twelve feet in the clear, which will bring it several feet above the Water street grade, and from Water street there will be an incline connecting with the lower floor The proposed box factory will be built upon the eastern part of the wharf fronting the river, and will be fifty feet wide by 100 feet deep, and probably two stories high. The building will be occupied by J. Moser & Sons, of the Standard box factory, Portland The Portland Construction company are the contractors, and expect to have the improvements completed by the first of the month

THE ASSESSED VALUE OF LAND

McCoy Polk county Or Aug

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I see of late frequent reference and comments made in THE OREGONIAN on the mortgage tax law as decided by the United States district court Allow me as a citizen and taxpayer to differ with both the United States court and THE OREGONIAN I believe that a bare assertion does not always constitute a fact and that the bare assertion of land being only assessed at one-third of its face value is a grand mistake at least in Polk county A few days ago our learned United States judge made the assertion on the same issue namely the mortgage tax law that the farmer in Linn county, whose farm was worth $10 000 would mortgage the same for $5000, and then he and his neighbors would elect an assessor for the purpose of assessing his premises at one half their value and thereby escape paying taxes altogether I quote from memory

I do not particularly desire to draw attention to the fact that in the above quotation the farmers of Linn county are accused of conspiracy nor that the neighborhood is quite extensive, embracing the whole county but to the fact that land was declared to be assessed at one half of its face value while now it is declared to be only one third But our assessors [illegible] United States [illegible] question [illegible] Who is right or who is wrong?

In order to settle that question we must first find the true value of land in a given county or locality, by well advertised public sales A tax being a legal lien on the land where levied can only by force be collected from the sale of such land at public auction We have such land sale nearly every Saturday at the court house door at Dallas where anybody who believes that land is only assessed at one-third of its value can satisfy himself of the great mistake. I attended one of those sales a month ago when 1600 acres of the best of arable land near Independence sold for less than $10 per acre That land had been assessed for not less than $18 per acre Who is right?

The Power of Love

George Stephenson the famous engineer, was a good deal pestered by semi-scientific people Although he once declared that "the gift of gab" was the greatest power above the earth or under it, he confessed to another power soon afterwards with a gallantry that quite covered the rebuke conveyed in his reply to a lady who worried him greatly on engineering questions at an otherwise pleasant party "Tell me now Mr Stephenson," said the lady adjusting her eye-glasses and looking uncommonly wise, "what do you consider the most powerful force in nature?" "Oh, I can soon answer that question," said Stephenson "it is the eye of a woman for the man who loves her for if a woman looks with affection on a young man, and he should go to the uttermost ends of the earth, the recollection of that look will bring him back There is no other force in nature that I know of which would do that.

The Mother of It.

Father—You are not sending George any more money, I hope. At the rate he is spending money his education will cost him more than it will be worth. He resorts to all sorts of excuses to get money

Mother—But this money is for an actual necessity He writes me that he is just beginning to study German, and must have a German student lamp right away.

Director C. B Wright Asks Northern Pacific Stockholders for Proxies to Vote at the Annual Election

St Paul Pioneer-Press Aug 2.

Several holders of Northern Pacific stock in St Paul and Minneapolis have recently received a circular letter from Philadelphia, marked confidential, and emanating from Charles B. Wright, one of the directors of the company. The circular is printed, but the signature of Mr Wright is written by himself. It refers directly to the matters relating to the proposed movement of the directors to gain control, jointly with the Union Pacific, of the Oregon Railway and Navigation property. Accompanying the circular was received stock proxies in favor of C B Wright, or Robert Harris, to be used for voting stock at the next meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific, to be held in New York next month This advance made by Mr Wright is rather remarkable, in so far as it is customary for the board of directors of all railroads to specifically nominate persons who should receive stock proxies Such a deviation from standard rules as that made by Mr Wright, is causing a good deal of speculation and comment among the many owners of Northern Pacific securities both in St. Paul and Minneapolis The text of the circular, which is given in full below, is carefully and ingeniously worded, and is free from any reference to the proposition that the Union Pacific will become a party to the lease and thus share the responsibility Mr Oakes was yesterday shown the copy of the circular obtained from a St. Paul merchant. He at first expressed some surprise at its being issued, but subsequently said he did not think it would amount to very much It was the first intimation he had that such a circular had been issued. The merchant from whom the circular was obtained said his only solution to it was that Mr Wright was opposed to the Northern Pacific entering into such a lease, individually or jointly, because it would possibly retard the completion of the Cascade branch, in the building of which Mr Wright is personally interested The circular bears the date of "142 S Third street, Philadelphia, July 3," and reads as follows

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific railroad company takes place in September, and in view of this meeting I enclose you a proxy to be voted upon, which I would be glad to have you sign and return to me in the enclosed envelope The name of Robert Harris, the efficient president of the company, and my own name are inserted in the power of attorney, so that in case of the absence of one, the other can vote the proxy Therefore, it is safe to have two names Should you intend to be present at the meeting, it would be quite safe for you to send me your proxy so it could be voted in case you failed to be there while, if present, you could vote your own stock For the past year the subject of leasing the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's railroads and steamboats has been more or less agitated No final action has yet been taken by the Northern Pacific board, but persistent efforts are being made by many to have the Northern Pacific Railway company lease the Oregon Railway & Navigation system for a long period of years. This system embraces a large amount invested in steamship bottoms, therefore there is some doubts in the minds of many of us of our being able to manage successfully the Oregon Railway & Navigation enterprise, on the present terms proposed. Should the scheme progress towards the consummation of a lease, it will doubtless be necessary to bring the subject before the stockholders for confirmation In view of this emergency I have inserted in the inclosed proxy authority to act in the premises in case you should not be present. You will understand that there will not only be a large amount of fixed charges to be paid in event of a lease, on the interest-bearing debt of Oregon Railway & Navigation company, but a further large sum would have to be paid on some $23,000,000 of the stock of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company The present terms talked of are 5 per cent. for three years and 6 per cent. thereafter. That is, the amount to be paid on the stock and bonds of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company will take precedence of not only the common, but also the preferred stock, thus making both common and preferred stock secondary to the payment of the interest on the Oregon Railway & Navigation company's stock and bonds. Due caution will be taken in the premises. Having a large interest myself, I propose to give the matter my special attention, at the proper time, and will endeavor to take such action as will benefit the interests of the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, August 6.

Overland receipts include 1 bbl baking powder, 30 cs bacon, 15 ctcs hams, 3 bbls blackberries, 4 cs cigars, 50 pkgs tobacco, 2 cs chocolate, 1 cs candy, 300 cs coal oil, 134 hf bbls beer, 50 bbls linseed oil, 25 hf 60 bbls alcohol, 45 bbls spirits.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 3723 ctls wheat, 112 bbls flour, 1437 ctls oats, 200 ctls bran, 100 ctls millstuff, 14 sks potatoes, 4575 lbs hides, 95 cs eggs, 537 bxs fruit, 2 cs butter. Also 8382 ctls wheat, 10,305 lbs wool, 4290 lbs hides, 29 bxs fruit from the eastern section.

EXPORTS—Per steamer Oregon to San Francisco: 13,172 ctls wheat, 1190 ctls bran, 22 ctls barley, 1719 ctls oats, 31,155 lbs wool, 25 bxs pears, 45 cs eggs, 10 bbls 20 kgs salmon, 13,000 ft ash lumber, 3 cs flannels, 5 cs cassimeres, 6 bls 4 cs blankets, 6 bls pelts, 6 bls deer skins, 4 bls calf skins, 2 sks tails, 94 green 118 dry hides, 8 bdls glue stock, $30,000 treasure.

FREIGHTS—The sailing of the Kitty, Carnarvon Castle and Haidee reduces the spot list of vessels to three, all having business. Of those on the way but one may be expected to arrive very soon. The end of the month should see about five others in the river, two with cargoes. There has been no opportunity for spot business other than the closing of the Coloma for Hong Kong. The market for forward arrival is probably weaker, although iron for orders has been closed at 46s 3d October, which is no change from previously reported business. Most owners continue to demand 47s 6d but are more willing to accept the shippers' idea. The en route list has been added to, five additions having been made. As all along noted, the greater portion of those being added are for October or later arrival, the immediate prospect for export business continuing without improvement. At San Francisco an inactive market has ruled. The position of the wheat market there does not ease, and exporters are idle.

WHEAT—Deliveries have sharply increased, the daily average receipts here for seven days past being 542 tons, that from the eastern section being 461 tons. Of this by far the greater part is new wheat. A small quantity of old is coming from Snake river. Valley receipts are also almost wholly new crop. Oregon City is receiving new valley which does not now figure in receipts. It will come later on as flour. The threshing of wheat is about concluded. It is found that the valley crop fails to meet first expectations as to yield. The market has ruled quiet, few holders showing any willingness to accept proffered prices until the close, when shippers report buying as being easier. Quotations are $1 22½ for valley and $1 15 for Walla Walla grades, and the latter is the most freely offered. At Walla Walla 46c is paid for wheat without sacks. This is equal to $1 15 here. Holders would let go freely for 50c net, but as the general tone of the markets is weak no more is possible. Even at the quotation buyers are indifferent. There has been next to nothing reported done in valley during the week, the market not being visited by holders in person. Old valley is not inquired for, as millers have ample stocks. It cannot be quoted above new. The outward movement is all to San Francisco, and is not as large as generally looked for. Advices are not such as to create confidence in the near future, as England is not calling for wheat. Supplies are slowly increasing as harvest advances, and foreign crops cannot be calculated with any degree of certainty. San Francisco continues a speculative market, shippers and holders being all of 5c apart in their views.

FLOUR—Trade very quiet, values being sustained by light mill stocks. Standards quoted $4 25, less trade discount.

MILLSTUFF—Light local trade doing, with a lessened export movement. Values show no change. We quote jobbing prices: Bran $12@13, chop $16 50@18, shorts $14@17, middlings $18@20.

BARLEY—Inactive and prices are nominal at $16@20 as to quality. Walla Walla buyers are paying 75c per cental on cars for brewing to go east.

OATS—The market cannot be said to show any improvement, although sales have been noted at a slight advance on last week's quotations. This may be explained by the fact that a better quality has been offered, and small buyers paid up for what they needed. San Francisco has fallen back into a despondent and weak condition, so that shipments are even less profitable than heretofore. The local market can do little in itself to enhance values, for supplies are heavy and demand slow. We quote best feed, 32@34c; poor to common, 22@30c; extra choice, in a small way, 35c.

POTATOES—In light request as there is no shipping outlet. Supplies liberal. Dealers pay 50c per sack. Sweets sell at 3c.

ONIONS—California selling at 1½@2c.

FRUITS, ETC.—Apples in freer receipt, but choice are steady at 50@60c. Plums drag at 1@1½c. Pears bring about 50c. Melons selling at $3 per dozen. Peaches 75c@$1 for local. California arrivals move quickly, last received selling at: Grapes $1 12½, peaches 75@85c, tomatoes 75c@$1 25, cantaloupes $2 75@3 25 per crate. Lemons have advanced to $12, limes steady at $1 25, bananas $3 75.

BUTTER—Supplies of choice are lighter and would do better. There remains the same difficulty in obtaining straight lots to fill orders, and dealers are compelled to mix parcels. Best dairy quoted at 22½@25c; good grades, 18@20c; poor, 8@12c.

POULTRY—Chickens have ruled quiet, without change, receipts and demand being very even. Old quoted $3@$4, young $2@3. Other poultry inactive under lack of request, and may nominally be quoted $4 00@5 for ducks, $6@8 for geese, and 10@12½c turkeys.

EGGS—Supplies continued liberal all week, showing no great improvement in quality. Two shipments have been made to San Francisco by local dealers. Quote 14@15c.

PINE VALLEY MINES.—Visitors to Baker City should remember the St. Lawrence, Albert Hanson proprietor. Only first-class hotel and restaurant. Reasonable prices. Sample rooms for commercial travellers. Free transfers.

FACTS ABOUT GRANT.

His favorite book, as a boy, was Charles O'Malley.

His mother died over a year ago. His father has been dead several years.

One of his requests was that he should be allowed to sit up and not die in bed.

He leaves two sisters—Mrs. Cramer and Mrs. Corbin—who live in Jersey City.

His last public speech was at Ocean Grove a year ago before the Christian commission.

Several owners of 306 medals wore them proudly yesterday on the lapels of their coats.

He leaves three sons and one daughter—Fred, U. S., Jesse and Nellie, all married—and eight grandchildren.

His mother was an enthusiastic Methodist, and believed in personal holiness and the nearness of the second coming.

Among the portraits in George W. Childs's office is one of General Grant and the emperor of China, taken seated together and arm in arm.

For several years he owned a house in Philadelphia, but he never occupied it. It was lost, with all the rest of its effects, in the financial crash.

Until given over to the government, all the souvenirs of his European trip were at the office of George W. Childs, to whose custody he confided them.

The husband of Nellie Grant Sartoris, his daughter, is an Englishman, an only son, and a nephew of Fanny Kemble, the actress, who became Mrs. Pierce Butler of Philadelphia.

When a boy, if he ever went beyond a place, he never retraced his footsteps, but took a roundabout tour to reach the destination some other way. He often said he attributed his success to a resolution taken in his youth, to "never turn back" in any undertaking.

Gen. Grant smoked his last cigar on the 20th of November, 1884. In a letter to a friend mentioning the circumstance, he said he had smoked many thousands of cigars and they had been his greatest comfort through the last years of the war on the battlefield.

It is a curious coincidence that the fathers-in-law of General Grant's sons all suffered financial reverses, like himself. Fred Grant married a daughter of Mr. Honore, of Chicago, once a millionaire. Buck Grant married a daughter of Senator Chaffee, of Colorado, who lost heavily. Jesse Grant married a daughter of Mr. Chapman, a former California Crœsus.

Jews in Paris.

It appears from statistics recently published in the Judische Presse that in 1789 the total number of Jews in Paris scarcely reached 500. By the year 1806 the number had risen to 3000, in 1812 to 12,000, and in 1872 to 40,000. At the present time the Jewish population in the French capital is believed to exceed 50,000. As an example of the increase in the number of Jews employed in various branches of the public service, the following figures relative to the army will suffice: In 1821 the army had in its ranks one Jewish general, Baron Wolff, one chief of battalion and three captains. In 1883 there were serving under the French flag 5 Jewish generals, 5 colonels, 9 majors, 25 chiefs of battalions, 90 captains, 89 lieutenants and 101 sub-lieutenants.

The most efficacious stimulants to excite the appetite are Angostura Bitters, prepared by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons. Beware of counterfeits. Ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article.

COME.

You Rustlers!
You town builders from the west!!
You Yankee manufacturers from the east!!!

Here is a chance for you to take a hand in building the boss town on the Columbia river.

Millions in value can be created by your skill, enterprise and nerve.

A good start is already made on a solid foundation.

More than a quarter of a million dollars has been expended in permanent improvements.

Every natural advantage of location, land farming country, water-power, wood, iron, stone, soil and climate was here at the beginning.

The water-power is improved; wharves, mills and factories have been built.

A railroad is in course of construction to open up the trade of one of the finest valleys on the Pacific coast.

We have one of the finest town-site locations in the world, and over 200 acres of adjoining lands. We give land free to manufacturers, and furnish lumber from our mills at prices far below ruling rates in the country to labor-employing enterprises. We do not desire to speculate at your expense. It is enough for us if we secure your assistance. Come and see us, and we will give you whatever you want at your own prices if you are willing to take hold and help in building up the place. We want manufacturers, merchants, capital, energy and enterprise, and are prepared to offer extraordinary inducements.

Correspondence solicited.
